Pyramid, or pyramid representation, is a type of multi-scale signal representation developed by the computer vision, image processing and signal processing communities, in which a signal or an image is subject to repeated smoothing and subsampling. Pyramid representation is a predecessor to scale-space representation and multiresolution analysis

Abstract. Digital image processing is always an interesting field as it gives improved pictorial information for human interpretation and processing of image data for storage, transmission, and representation for machine perception.

An apparent diffusion coefficient (ADC) image or an ADC map is an MRI image that more specifically shows diffusion than conventional DWI, by eliminating the T2 weighing that is otherwise inherent in conventional DWI. ADC imaging does so by acquiring multiple conventional DWI images with different amounts of DWI weighing, and the change in signal is proportional to the rate of diffusion.

Time Distributed. `tflern.layers.core.time_distributed` (incoming, fn, args=None, scope=None). This layer applies a function to every timestep of the input tensor. The custom function first argument must be the input tensor at every timestep.

Background subtraction for in-line FTIR measurements is of major importance as water has an absorption band around 1600 cm^{-1} (cf. Fig. 2A) which coincides with the most prominent protein band amide I. The spectral processing workflow is illustrated in Fig. 2 using data from case study I. Specifically the elution of mAb and lysozyme using a 4 CV gradient is shown.
